

Online Library – Health Studies Resources

All students studying for a University of Wales qualification at a collaborative centre can take advantage of the Online Library. This web-based library service provides students with supplementary resources to those offered by the library service at a collaborative centre. It is continually being developed, with more subject areas and new resources being added and as part of our Global Campus website, the Online Library can be accessed 24 hours a day, from anywhere in the world.

AltHealth Watch

This database offers students access to more than 180 full text journals and reports going back as far as 1990. In addition, there are hundreds of pamphlets, booklets, special reports, original research and book excerpts. Students can change the language of the user interface for this database.

Psychology And Behavioral Sciences Collection

Relevant to health studies students, this database offers nearly 400 full text journals on emotional and behavioural characteristics, psychiatry and psychology, mental processes, anthropology, and observational & experimental methods. Students can change the language of the user interface for this database.

SPORTDiscus with Full Text

This extensive database offers more than 550 full text journals dating as far back as 1985. Students can change the language of the user interface for this database.

eJournals

The Library has an A to Z List of eJournals which students can search to find a journal in our collection. It includes all journals that we subscribe to plus many open access journals.

Examples of health journals in our collection include:
